Experience

I have loads of in person tutoring experience that will enable me to be an outstanding EFL teacher. My aptitude for technology will make the transition to online teaching seamless.

I worked as a freelance tutor for three years, with duties ranging from homework and assignment help to test preparation and setting up mock exams. I also worked as an au pair and had to oversee two young children's academic performance.

Since 2021 I have worked as a freelance English and Afrikaans speech writer, with client projects ranging from class orals to national televised debates. Several of my clients have gone on to win regional, provincial and national competitions.

About Me

I am a qualified EFL teacher with additional training in teaching young learners, as well as a small business owner and BCom. Business Management student. I have always enjoyed studying languages, and I have a special appreciation for the unique psychology behind learning a new language. Apart from that, I am also an adventure and travel lover and an avid reader.

I enjoy using my creativity to produce fun and engaging lessons that will capture the attention of a class. I work well alongside others and appreciate the opportunity to learn from those more experienced than myself. I can communicate effectively with all levels and ages.

My aim when presenting a lesson will always be to teach a new skill in the most practical yet entertaining manner. I believe EFL studies should be loads of fun!
