I'm Manshi, a postgraduate student from the University of Delhi. I have been working as an SEO Content Writer for the past 5 years and have written numerous blogs/articles as shared below, which were published and gained commending viewership. However, I want to be a TEFL/ESL teacher since 2018 and have been trying for volunteer work since then but being an Indian with no teaching experience I have always had limited opportunities. But I turned my crisis into an opportunity and taught online as well as face-to-face lessons for four years to ages 5 to 13. Moreover, I completed my Post graduation in English literature so that I can use my knowledge and skills in English with students. I want to write my Ph.D. thesis solely focusing on education and language so teaching overseas can help me pave a path to both of my goals, as a TEFL teacher and a PhD holder. In addition to that, I have participated in numerous debating occasions for the university and in the classroom to enhance my knowledge as a literature student along with multiple extempore speech competitions to gain fluency in English and bagged medals at every attempt.
